I live in St. Johns, a few blocks from the Willamette River. I am extremely disappointed, not to mention disgusted, by the EPA's proposal. This plan seems expressly designed to let polluters off the hook, doing very little to actually repair the damage done to the river. This river belongs to the community, not to corporations--so why is the EPA advancing a plan that protects corporations, while leaving Portland citizens to eat toxic fish? It is insulting to all Portlanders, and especially to the Native peoples who have been consistently abused for the past 200 years.

I support Willamette Riverkeepers' Option G+, which dredges out a much greater amount of toxic sediment. I reject the EPA's disgraceful current proposal. We want a clean river!
